We have familiar experience of the order, the constancy, the perpetual renovation of the material world which surrounds us. Frail and transitory as is every part of it, restless and migratory as are its elements, never ceasing as are its changes, still it abides. It is bound together by a law of permanence, it is set up in unity; and, though it is ever dying, it is ever coming to life again. Dissolution does but give birth to fresh modes of organization, and one death is the parent of a thousand lives. Each hour, as it comes, is but a fleeting testimony, yet how certain is the great whole.

The sun sinks to rise again; the day is swallowed up in the gloom of the night, to be born out of it, as fresh as if it had never been quenched. Spring passes into summer, and through summer and autumn into winter, only the more surely, by its own ultimate return, to triumph over the grave. We mourn the blossoms of May because they are to wither; but we know, withal, that May is one day to have its revenge upon November, by the revolution of that solemn circle which never stops — which teaches us in our height of hope, ever to be sober, and in our depth of desolation, never to despair.

Monday. Mrs. Csonka sat at her desk and sneaked smiles between telephone receivers and the queries of confused students. Sister Marie was at her usual pace in a flurry of announcements and stacks of letters, each demanding "open me first!" Persistent teachers strolled in, grimly determined that the students would learn more this week than ever before. A new chance? Not just for the week. Each student was a chance. At that moment it was great to be a part of a school.

to full-fledged students in one short year

Our freshmen have climbed the wall of sophistication and entered the realm of princely high-schoolery. They came not alone. There were fears and expectations. They wondered how much homework they would have. If the religion teacher would remember her from fifth grade—she hoped not. If he could make varsity the first year. If the nuns would notice how high her skirt went when she sat. If he would finally get the courage to talk to 'that girl.' And why high school was really necessary, after all.

The year was filled with achievements. They saw the sophomores and caught Irish spirit, the juniors and gained enthusiasm. They saw the brilliance of the senior class and entertained the aura of scholarly achievement. Now they will be sophomores. New ideas will come, new hopes will hold them prey, new subjects will be introduced to puzzle their minds. And to this adventure they will again respond—"all we can do is try."

With one year of high school behind them, the sophomores set out on their tedious journey to conquer new courses, new teachers and to live up to the idea of being upper underclassmen. Dissected sharks and worms, mingled with the aroma of formaldehyde, helped lend a pleasant air to the classrooms. In typical sophomore tradition, the class of '70 gloried in not being low men on the Irish totem pole. They experienced for the first time the thrill of seeing their projects at the annual Science Fair.

They became full-fledged members of the Boosters, and using balloons and noisemakers to compensate for their hoarse voices, were able to win the spirit stick three times. As the end of the year approached, enterprising sophomores had already established a "junior activities treasury" padded with funds from car washes and bake sales. Such initiative and imagination helped make the sophomore class a vital asset to St. V.

Junior year is a year of preoccupation with tomorrow. Two years at St. V have given the Juniors time to clarify their goals and ideals, but the major decisions are still to come. Early in the year they began a long series of college entrance and scholarship qualifying tests, including the PSAT and National Merit Scholarship Test. Seeking answers to questions about school and courses of study, they frequented the offices of guidance counselors. Suddenly the Juniors were aware that there was only one year left, and the thought of the next time—the next Prom, the next election, the next season—became very important since everyone was conscious that the next time was going to be their last time.

Juniors this year gave vital service to the school. They formed the core of a winning football team and gave promise of future basketball success by their strong showing on Junior Varsity and Varsity teams. In preparation for future responsibilities, Juniors guarded halls, assisted in the office, and served on the audio-visual squad. Junior midshipmen sparked the crew of HMS Pinafore and Junior girls gave a fine singing performance in the annual talent show. Together with the Seniors, Juniors contributed their efforts to boosting of Irish spirit. With election of Junior Steve Jessie as student council president, the entire school passed on to his class the duty of continued improvement of St. V.

Junior year began with the solemnity of the ring ceremony. The class of '69 received their class rings from Fr. Vincent Moraghan in the traditional ceremony attended by the faculty and the sophomore class. They proudly displayed the proof of their "arrival" as upperclassmen to envious freshmen and to the seniors whose own ring design is the same as the juniors.

Virginia Kendell Ledges was once again the site of the upperclassmen's picnic. Pitting their strength against the undefeated "Green Bay Seniors," the junior girls' football team won a closely fought 2-0 victory at the annual Junior-Senior contest. The pie-eating contest and other scheduled events were cancelled when a rainstorm clouded the day's activities and sent everyone home.

The Junior-Senior prom occurs only once a year, but its excitement and fantasy linger long after the actual dance. The preparations, too, are a very important part of the prom magic. Formals, tuxedos, flowers, a band and a place for the dance are just a few of the essentials that must be made ready in advance. This year the Prom was held at the Silver Lake Country Club on May 24th from 9:00 p.m. to 12:00 p.m. The Junior class transformed the country club into a flower bedecked "Garden of Dreams." Elegance and romance were at their height as the couples danced to the music of the Nuff Rey Band or sipped punch around the floral arch. As the evening ended and the couples departed for the various after-prom celebrations, each already carried along memories of the "Garden of Dreams."

spirit in action — scholarship and service

"Irish spirit" is a phrase often used to express the mood that carries us through games, cheer rallies, and school activities. But spirit is more than cheers, signs, and hops. It encompasses involvement and concern with making our school the greatest. Organizations like Future Teachers, National Honor Society, and Audio Visual help to develop this spirit and to maintain an atmosphere of willingness to serve others. Without such clubs St. Vincent would find it hard to live up to the standards it has created for itself.

FTA gives its members first-hand experience by allowing them to work with students in the grade school. Future Teachers are given the opportunity to prepare and present lessons and to aid in the classrooms by correcting papers, showing film strips, and helping with reading lessons. The twofold purpose of this organization is providing assistance for St. V teachers as well as helping students decide whether or not teaching is the career for them. Members who have already chosen teaching as their future role gain valuable experience as Future Teachers of America.

It's amazing what students of FTA officers Karen Brown,

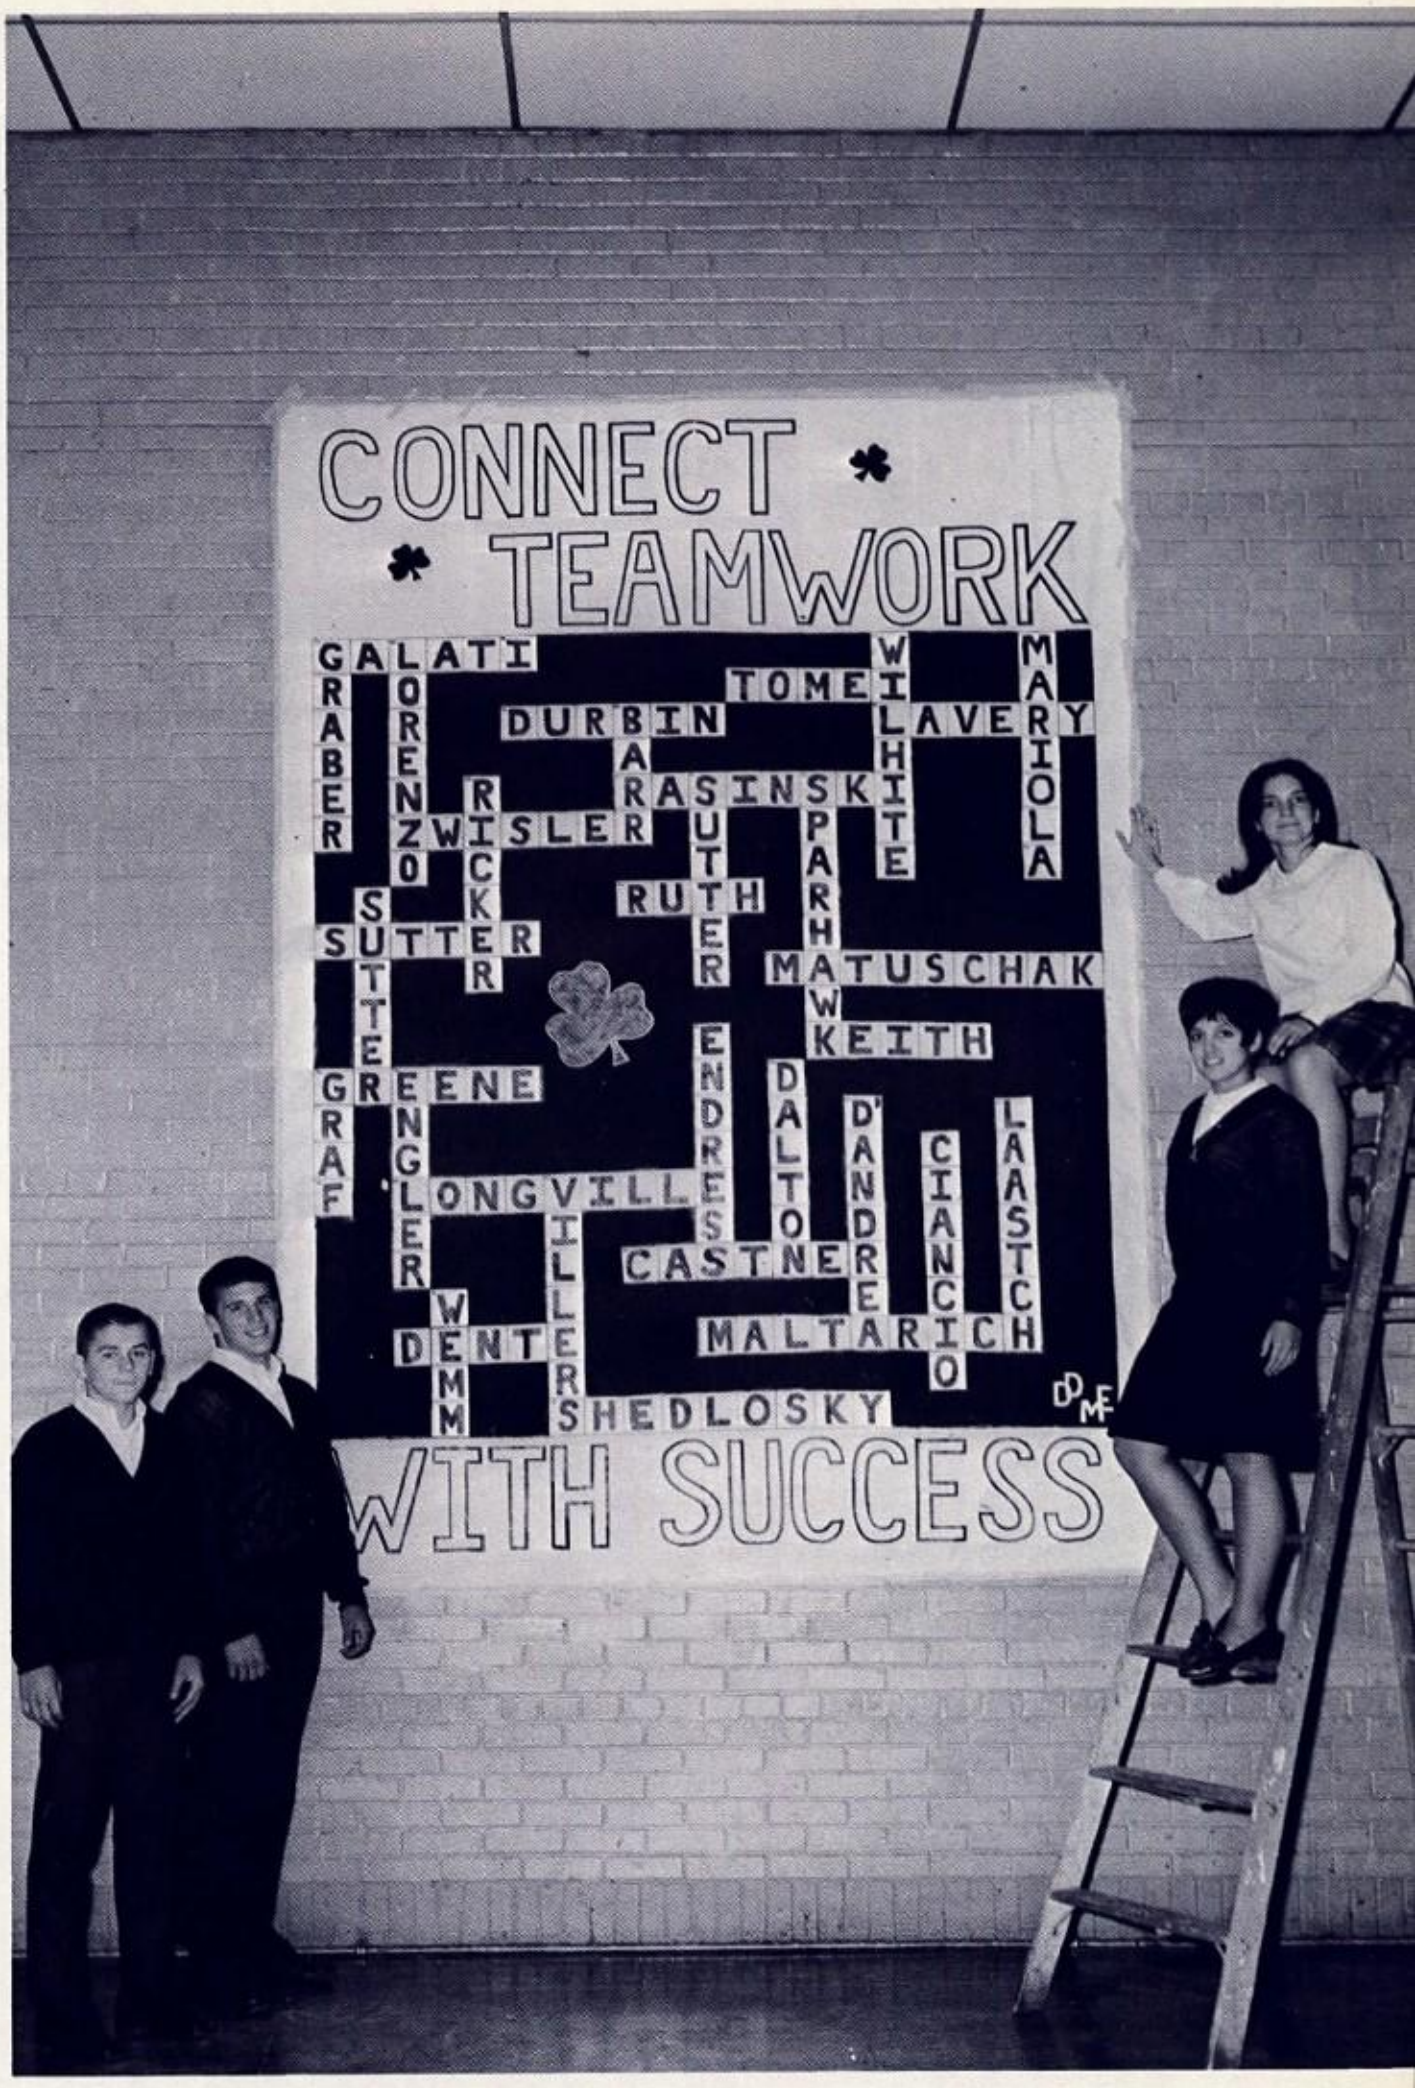
At long last. It was that day. Sure, getting out of ninth period wasn't ever unpopular, but this wasn't just a time of no English, or no math, or whatever other subject had been chained on at 2:15. It was the day of the Hoban cheer rally. The underclassmen brought October noisemakers and balloons. The seniors remembered that this was their last year. This was their day. The band gave more than a sound—it was a feeling. And when the majorettes did their routines the boys still whistled, but they seemed to realize that being a majorette was more than twirling a baton. It was like being in the band, being able to come back in twenty years and feel that you've never left. It was becoming part of a school. The whole student body won the spirit stick that day. And the rally didn't end with the cheering. With awards and medals, it became tradition.



Under the leadership of Jeannie Flynn (top right), aided by Bob Maltarich, Larry Graf, and Mary Russo, the Vincenteen Boosters have taken their usual first place among the spirit-raisers.

The Modern Music Masters, under the leadership of officers Betsy Fry, Paula Thaden, Kathy Rennie, Tom Boyer, and Mary Staudt, promote the interests of music at St. V by encouraging membership in the Chorus and the Band.

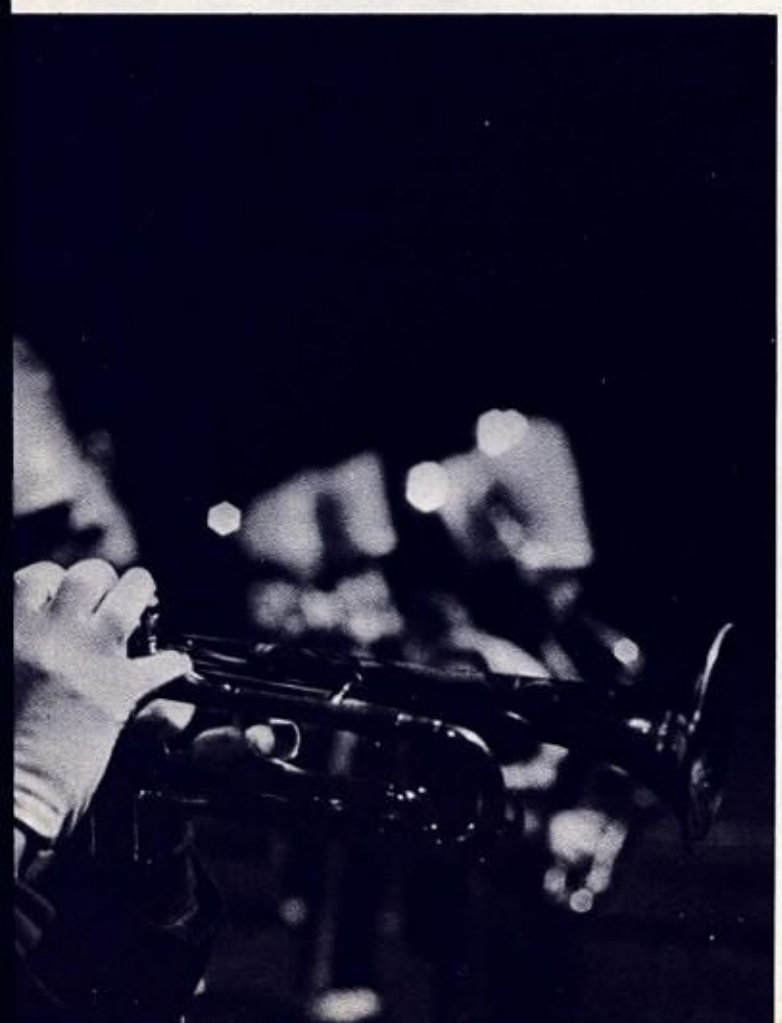
entertainment. James Dages salutes the "Spirit of the Irish" during a rainy halftime performance.



Music appreciation has always been a tradition at St. Vincent. One of the first questions of the year, along with, "When do we get a day off?" is the question, "Wonder what the spring musical will be this year?" Students who are able give valuable time, effort and talent to musical productions in the school, but an appreciative audience is necessary to make the show a success.

Promoting interest in music and the development of talent, the Modern Music Masters plays an important role at St. V. Proving that music culture is more than knowing Beethoven's biography, or humming three bars of Brahms' "Lullaby," MMM presents programs to the student body, such as the operetta, "Abu Hassan." Every spring they sponsor a trip to the Metropolitan Opera in Cleveland for students interested in broadening their musical scope.

Mr. Cryder, our substitute for Gilbert and Sullivan, handles the double job of Chorus director and Band conductor. He plans the songs and instrumentals featured in the annual Christmas program and arranges the halftime shows for athletic events. Beginning in February when tryouts for the musical are held, Mr. Cryder chooses the cast leads and coordinates the chorus and band.

"If we crop this picture here, look at all the space we'll have for body copy," explains Paula Thaden to her fellow layout workers Tom Boyer, Patti Allwin and Bob Destro.

transforming a year into words and pictures — shamrock staff

Advertising and sales of the yearbook is the duty of the Shamrock business staff, supervised by Mother Rosalia with Elaine Marcius, editor. The Senior class, encouraged by the staff, obtains sponsors and patrons to help alleviate the cost of the yearbook. When this campaign is finished, the members of the staff determine the price of the yearbook and begin collection of money for advanced orders.

The layout staff has the responsibility of building the yearbook from scratch. Its hard-working members must first choose which of the pictures should be used. Good form makes a pleasing page. The selected photographs are situated in an attractive way and cropped to fit the page. The remaining space, divided into body copy, cutlines, and headlines, prepares the layout for the copy staff.

Amid the shuffling of chairs, the rustling of envelopes and the scattering of pictures, the Shamrock seems to get completed. Throughout the yearbook all the seldom-read and often skimmed-over writing is the job of the copy staff. Body copy sums up the accomplishments of clubs, organizations, and classes while cutlines and headlines add the finishing touches and explanations. The entire story of an Irish year is finally put into print.

Arm raised for better balance, Junior Ron Greene manages to make it look easy as he outruns two Niles defenders on a sweep. Ron's great speed and ability to pick his holes made the opposing teams respect him as a breakaway threat.

The 1967 football season was highlighted by skill and spirit. Leading the Irish were senior co-captains Frank Ricker, defensive end, and Willie Zwisler, quarterback. In the season opener St. V. crushed the Girard Indians, but the impressive start was marred by a loss to East in the next game. Victories over Bedford Chanel, Barberton, and Warren J. F. K. gave the Irish the momentum that proved fatal for a strong Niles team. The game was marked by the efforts of the defensive squad which held Niles to a single score. At their homecoming the following week, the Irish controlled Ellet easily, 38-8. Outstanding team spirit gained a victory over Alliance with "Moose" Sutter's extra-point kick winning the game. In the last game of the season the Irish fell to arch-rival Hoban. The game was decided in the final seconds when a Zwisler pass was intercepted, stopping the Irish on Hoban's 15 yard line. Although this was a "building year" for the football squad, the Irish finished the season as one of the most respected football powers in the area.

The 1967-68 basketball campaign was highlighted by the sound play of five seniors. Willie Zwisler was superb in the hustle department and received the game ball for his efforts against Hoban. Tom Barr controlled the boards, while Mike Kish displayed excellent defensive tactics. In the shooting statistics Mark Weigand made 43%; Tim Durbin averaged nearly 17 points per game. Wrestling reached a new peak in popularity in '68. The grapplers began with five straight victories at home over Kenmore, Barberton, Mogadore, Firestone and North. In the North match Pete Shedlosky's crucial win gave the Irish the victory, 18-17. However, the grapplers came up against the stiff competition of Hoban and Garfield. Eight grapplers will be returning next year, but the Irish will miss co-captains Joe Trecaso and Pete Shedlosky. Joe at 127, and Pete, heavyweight, were both undefeated in their third year on the mat. Always winning, they led the Irish to a fine season but much of the work was done by coach Bruce Brubach, who had to use seven new varsity wrestlers. Coach Brubach has an outstanding 28-7-1 three-year record, which includes only two losses at home.

Two new coaches led the Irish runners this year. Mr. Smith trained the harriers for the two-mile run while Mr. O'Hare worked with the cindermen in track and field. Mr. Smith also coached the tennis team. The highlight of the season was the semi-finals victory of the doubles team. The golf team, coached by Mr. Horrigan, had one of the finest records in school history. Senior year is nostalgic. The past three years were active and they've gone too quickly. There is so much you should have done—but then, so much you have done. Senior year is fun. The months between your last Orientation and Graduation hold some of the most memorable occasions that you will ever experience.

Senior year is restless. You're getting too old for high school, but you still cling to it—for awhile. You wonder what next year will bring. But senior year is the greatest. You're the oldest—you're the boss. You make the plans. You run the school. You set the pace. And you live it freely, for it lasts only nine wonderful months.

"diffused knowledge immortalizes itself"

Winners of college credit through the American History Advanced Placement Test were: Tom Botzum, Patti Allwin and Chris Vukan.

Because of an overall knowledge of American history, three seniors have met the standards in this course required by colleges. They will receive their college credits as a result of high scores on the American History Advanced Placement test.

This year St. Vincent claimed the honor of thirteen National Merit Letters of Commendation. These seniors have received well-deserved recognition of high scholastic achievement on the National Merit Test which is administered to students throughout the country during their junior year.
